Royal Commission to Probe 'Psych' Crimes

CCHR Spreads Investigation Worldwide

A Royal Commission, the highest form of governmental investigative body in Australia, has been established to investigate and document all crimes committed in the name of "mental health" in the state of New South Wales.

The announcement of the Royal Commission by Health Minister Peter Collins followed a campaign begun by the Citizens Commission on Human

Jan Eastgate, together with staff of CCHR and the Office of Special Affairs in Sydney, persisted for more than a decade and succeeded in getting a Royal Commission called to investigate all crimes committed in the name of "mental health."

'Incredible Persistence' by CCHR Brings Gov't Inquiry

The announcement that a Royal Commission is being established in New South Wales to investigate all mental health services in that state is the result of a more than 10-year campaign by the Citizens Commission on Human Rights (CCHR) in Sydney.

The campaign started with CCHR's exposure of brutal psychiatric "treatment" at Chelmsford Private Hospital, where 69 documented deaths occurred, at least 26 of those from deep sedation — better known as "deep sleep."

The Beginning

It started in the mid-1970s, when CCHR received a number of complaints about Chelmsford from people who knew of patients who had been turned into zombies, others who had been left with portions of their bodies paralyzed, and still others who had died during or after deep sleep.

Investigation by CCHR uncovered further gruesome details of abuses committed at Chelmsford. Electric shock was being administered to patients without their consent while they were comatose from the deep sleep drugs.

Doctors were grossly negligent, only visiting the deep sleep area once a week and leaving the care of these patients to the nurses the rest of the time. Furthermore, as CCHR revealed, the doctors were issuing orders about the patients' care over the phone without ever examining them at all. They were even pre-signing "drug treatment" sheets and

Religious Freedom Week Proclaimed

The Church of Scientology, working with allied churches and religious organizations around the country, has won a victory of great historic importance with the passage of a resolution designating the week of September 25, 1988, as "Religious Freedom Week."

The resolution, which had 225 co-sponsors in the House of Representatives and 70 in the Senate, was approved by the U.S. Congress on September 20 and signed by President Ronald Reagan on September 27.

This major win was the culmination of nearly a year's hard, effective work by Church of Scientology public relations staff.

In a separate, special presidential proclamation issued the same day he signed the congressional resolution,

"The religion of the Scientologist is freedom for all things spiritual on all dynamics which means adequate discipline and knowledge to keep that freedom guaranteed."
— L. Ron Hubbard

President Reagan noted, "On September 25, 1789, the Congress proposed and sent to the States for ratification a series of 10 Amendments to the new Constitution. . . .

"Because of the First Amendment's vital clauses — 'Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; . . . ' — the 199th anniversary of the

A Letter From The President

President Heber Jentzsch

Dear Scientologist,
This special edition of Scientology Today highlights one of the most spectacular victories over psychiatry achieved in recent years by the Office of Special Affairs — the formation of a Royal Commission, which has opened a year-long investigation into abuses and crimes by psychiatrists in the state of New South Wales, Australia.

The Royal Commission, convened by the State Cabinet of New South Wales, has been empowered to investigate not only Chelmsford Private Hospital but all crimes committed in that state in the name of "mental health."

This official government inquiry is the direct result of more than 10 years of continuous work by staff members of the Citizens Commission on Human Rights (CCHR) and the Office of Special Affairs.

As a result of these efforts, Chelmsford — a psychiatric house of horrors where hundreds of innocent men and women were routinely put into a drug-induced coma for weeks on end, often without their knowledge or consent, and then given repeated, brain-searing blasts of electric shock — has finally been closed down for good.

Also because of our work, psychosurgery, the brutal technique of turning an individual into a vegetable by destroying parts of the brain, is now subject to a state-wide ban.

Additional research by CCHR has uncovered links to similar psychiatric barbarities in Italy, Sweden, Canada, the United Kingdom, and the United States, and new investigations are being launched in each of these places.

Such accomplishments are milestones in the war to end psychiatric atrocities perpetrated against mankind.

Psychiatrists, reeling from the continuous exposure of their crimes in Australia, today face the prospect of international censure as more and more of their crimes are uncovered and as other groups and organizations join with us in the call to bring psychiatry to justice.

To fully handle the field of mental health, we need to be able to contact and influence those people who hold sway over psychiatric activities in a given area, whether it is those who control the funding of psychiatry or who approve new psychiatric facilities and programs.

The Chelmsford victims who helped bring psychiatry to justice.

We must be able to reach people who are concerned about the crimes and abuses of psychiatry and who — like the Royal Commission in Australia — are willing to help us investigate and subsequently take action against this criminal group.

If you have comm lines to such individuals, it is vital that you let me know. Bluntly stated, psychiatry, which has as its product the destruction of the individual, should not be a part of our society. The faster this blight can be eliminated, the sooner mankind will realize the goal of a Clear planet.

You can help directly in these vital activities, as a member of CCHR or as a member of the Office of Special Affairs, participating in the exciting game of creating a better society, worldwide. Simply contact your local CCHR chapter or the local Department of Special Affairs office and tell them you want to help. If there is no CCHR office near you, write to me and I will tell you how to open one.

There is no better time than now for all of us to pull together and forward a coordinated attack from all sectors on psychiatric crimes.

As LRH wrote in the Code of a Scientologist:

"As a Scientologist, I pledge myself to the Code of a Scientologist for the good of all.

"5. To expose and help abolish any and all physically damaging practices in the field of Mental Health.

"6. To help clean up and keep clean the field of Mental Health.

"7. To bring about an atmosphere of safety and security in the field of Mental Health by eradicating its abuses and brutality."

We must all do our part to live by this Code.

By exposing and eliminating the threat of psychiatry on this planet, we will kick the doors wide open for even greater Scientology expansion and, ultimately, total freedom for all mankind.

Scientology must bring order to the planet-wide chaos which has been perpetrated by psychiatry. We need and want your help to put sanity into the environment and bring psychiatrists to justice, for only then will there be peace on Earth and freedom for all.

— Heber Jentzsch

PURPOSE: To keep Scientologists in all walks of life up-to-date on the wins and good news regarding our progress in defending Scientology and reforming the society and its governments, and making the environment safe for Scientology expansion.

dosages of barbiturates were administered to put the person in a drug-induced coma for as long as four weeks at a time. While unconscious, the victims received crippling electric shocks.

At least 69 deaths have now been documented as having occurred at Chelmsford, 26 from deep sleep alone; hundreds, possibly thousands, of others were maimed or disabled.

"The lid is finally coming off one of the biggest psychiatric atrocities in history," says Jan Eastgate, president of CCHR in Australia, who spearheaded the lengthy investigation into Chelmsford.

Working closely with members of Parliament and the Chelmsford Victims Action Group, an organization of more than 100 survivors of the hospital, CCHR has led the battle for mental health reform in Australia.

Chelmsford's doors were recently closed permanently as a result of CCHR's exposures of the crimes committed there. But the investigation into psychiatric atrocities continued and CCHR has come up with evidence which has revealed just how widespread the use of psychiatric deep sleep torture has been in other countries around the world.

"Our research has shown that psychiatrists were also experimenting with deep sleep in the United Kingdom, Italy, Canada and the United States," says Jan.

"We know that Bailey studied deep sleep in some of these countries," she continues. "We intend to investigate all possible places that Bailey studied deep sleep outside Australia and forward what we find to the Royal Commission to ensure the full scope of this scourge on humanity is publicly documented."

CCHR ExposesEvidence of Crimes

Harry Bailey committed suicide in September 1985, the day before he was due to appear in court to answer questions about the atrocities at Chelmsford.

After his death, the Australian press would describe Bailey as "a sadist dressed up as a doctor." His lectures and personal papers reveal that he studied the techniques of deep sleep and related procedures in the early 1950s at a number of psychiatric hospitals throughout the world and brought what he learned back to Australia.

"Using data we've uncovered in our investigations, we've begun a coordinated effort with CCHR groups around the world to trace the international connections of this incredible psychiatric web of horror," says Jan. "CCHR International now has investigative teams in operation in a number of countries, and we are finding that Chelmsford was only the tip of the iceberg."

Tulane University

One of the places Bailey visited to learn the techniques he later used at Chelmsford was Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana, where he worked with a psychiatrist named Robert Heath.

With Heath, Bailey later stated, he participated in a number of bizarre mind control experiments in which live electrodes were implanted through holes drilled in the skulls of the victims. The purpose of such experiments was to control behavior with shocks delivered directly to the brain.

President Suddenly Goes on "Vacation"

The day after the letter was delivered to Kelly's administrative secretary, the president of the university abruptly went on vacation. Within a matter of days, several individuals at Tulane who allegedly were involved in these barbaric experiments or might have known about them

"CCHR's work has made it clear to everyone just how deadly psychiatry's dehumanizing practices really are."

— Jan Eastgate

A team of investigators headed by Sanford Block, CCHR director in the United States, visited Tulane in August.

The team's first action was to deliver a three-page letter from the Chelmsford Victims Action Group to Eamon Kelly, president of Tulane. The letter asked Kelly for his assistance in gathering evidence of the inhuman experiments Bailey reported had been performed there so that this evidence could be turned over to the Royal Commission.

"We have been part of what has been labeled the 'greatest psychiatric and medical scandal in the history of Australia,'" the victims stated in the letter. "We have fought long and hard for justice which may now come to light in the Royal Commission. Your assistance in this matter would help bring about that long-awaited justice. Any information you can present to CCHR, who can forward this to us, would be greatly appreciated."

were also suddenly "unavailable."

"For years the psychiatric community in Australia attempted to stall and suppress any investigation into Chelmsford and Bailey's murderous 'treatments,'" Block told Scientology Today. "It comes as no surprise that CCHR is now meeting with the same tactics in the United States."

As part of its investigation in New Orleans, CCHR has been running a newspaper advertisement asking victims of psychiatric mind control experiments to come forward. The ad, which shows a man with wires implanted in his brain, has already started to draw responses.

"People have come forward," Block says, "and as a result we have found at least one other location in Louisiana where these experiments may have been carried out." He adds that one confidential source has indicated deep sleep techniques may be currently in use at certain psychiatric hospitals in Louisiana.

Psychiatrist Harry Bailey in his suicide note said of the Scientologists: "They have finally won."

"It may take the same persistence here that it took in Australia to uncover the full extent of the psychiatric crimes that are taking place in the United States, but we are definitely going to find out what those crimes are and get them exposed," he concludes.

CCHR FindsBailey Connection in Sweden

Another place that Bailey visited was the University of Lund's Leksell Clinic in Sweden. While there, he studied under Professor Lars Leksell, whom he described as "Europe's leading experimental brain surgeon."

Bailey credited Leksell as the man who originally developed many of the brutal psychosurgery techniques that turn victims into helpless vegetables.

Says Jan Eastgate, "The vicious forms of psychosurgery that were taught in Sweden were later carried back to Australia by Bailey and used to ruin the lives of thousands of innocent people."

In July 1988, due to the efforts of CCHR, psychosurgery was finally banned in New South Wales. (See "Psychosurgery Banned in Australia!" Scientology Today Volume 1, Issue 4.)

"CCHR wants to know if these inhuman experimental operations were also performed at Leksell Clinic and, if so, whether they are still occurring," says Jan. "There may well be grounds for a full scale inquiry in Sweden."

Following the Trail To Italy and the UK

CCHR has recently opened two more investigations into deep sleep — in Italy and the United Kingdom.

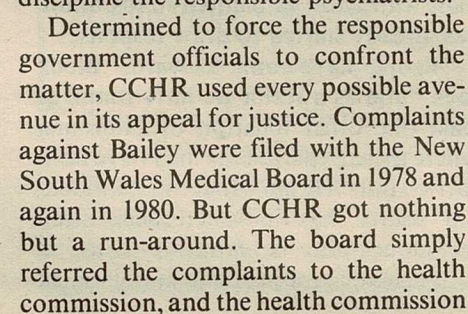

"Although our investigation has just begun in Italy, CCHR has already obtained evidence of the same kind of abuses here that took place in Australia," says Luigi Cosivi, CCHR national spokesman for Italy.

"We have uncovered at least three deaths and are tracing reports of many others," he says. One of these deaths was a woman who set herself on fire after introduction of the Bill of Rights is a fitting time to begin a week in celebration of religious freedom."

Noting the vital role that the Church of Scientology played in getting tremendous nationwide backing for the resolution, Heber Jentzsch, president of the Church of Scientology International, pointed out, "LRH stresses the importance of religious freedom in a 1957 article, in which he says, 'The religion of the Scientologist is freedom for all things spiritual on all dynamics which means adequate discipline and knowledge to keep that freedom guaranteed.'

"Since the Church of Scientology has always been in the forefront of the battle for religious freedom, it is natural that we would dedicate ourselves to the establishment of Religious Freedom Week," Heber said.

The campaign to create a week-long celebration of religious liberty began early in 1988.

Calling upon allies from around the country, staff members of the Church of Scientology International's Office of Special Affairs in Washington, D.C., helped Congresswoman Helen Bentley of Maryland get the measure drafted and introduced into the House of Representatives.

Congressman Mervyn Dymally of California and Congresswomen Bentley were the resolution's principal co-sponsors in the House of Representatives.

The resolution was introduced into the U.S. Senate by Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island. A second key co-sponsoring senator was John Chafee, also of Rhode Island.

Representatives from the Department of Special Affairs in cities around the country, working with other churches and allied organizations, obtained the support of numerous congressmen and senators, who reaffirmed the guarantees of the Constitution by co-sponsoring the Religious Freedom Week resolution.

Joining in the teamwork, the governors of the states of Washington and Oregon issued their own proclamations supporting Religious Freedom Week, as did the mayors of Milwaukee, Wisconsin; Seattle, Washington; Bellevue, Washington; Portland, Oregon; and Anchorage, Alaska.

Events celebrating Religious Freedom Week were held in cities all around the country. One such event was a nationwide Church of Scientology-sponsored contest for schoolchildren on the subject of "What religious freedom means to America."

In San Francisco, a Religious Freedom Week rally was held on the steps of the federal building. A special presentation was made in Boston to U.S. Congressmen Edward Markey and Brian Donnelly for their support of the resolution establishing Religious Freedom Week.

Validating the work done by the Church of Scientology and allied groups which made the week-long celebration of religious freedom possible, Congressman Markey stated, "I commend the important work that your coalition is doing to educate your religious congregations and the general public about the importance of religious liberty. Religious freedom is a precious right and important civic responsibility."

Religious Freedom Week events were also held in Detroit, Los Angeles and Portland.

The highlight of the celebration was a congressional reception on Capitol Hill attended by senators, representatives and religious leaders from around the country.

Rev. Brian Anderson, vice president of the Church of Scientology International and a member of the Office of Special Affairs, was introduced at the reception and received an enthusiastic ovation from the many legislative and religious allies present.

At the event, Brian gave a special award from the Church of Scientology International to Congresswoman Helen Bentley for her "exemplary courage, perception and leadership in protecting religious freedom in the United States."

Congressman Dymally, and Senators Chafee and Pell, also received beautiful plaques in appreciation of their unswerving support of the Religious Freedom Week resolution.

"This win was accomplished by working closely with individuals and organizations who have similar purposes to ours, and by applying standard LRH policy in order to make this resolution a reality," Brian told Scientology Today.

"The result was that the Church of Scientology spearheaded a major victory in our continuing campaign to strengthen religious freedom and thereby create a safe, sane environment into which Scientology can expand," he concluded.

FREEDOM Magazine Exposes The Illegal Use of Ritalin

A recent article in the United States edition of FREEDOM Magazine, "Ritalin in the Streets," has been making international news.

The article, which exposed the widespread, illegal use of Ritalin by drug addicts and drug pushers in America's cities, was the result of an extensive, nationwide investigation by FREEDOM researchers into the destruction wreaked by this psychiatric drug. FREEDOM reporters, led by Richard Wieland and Michael Lashaway, members of the Office of Special Affairs, even interviewed people who had injected or "shot" Ritalin as a substitute for heroin.

A great deal of media interest in the story has been generated across the United States and elsewhere, including Switzerland, home of Ciba-Geigy, the drug company that manufactures Ritalin.

A Swiss reporter who read the story in FREEDOM contacted Michael Lashaway in Washington, D.C., and was sent information about Ritalin as well as several back issues of FREEDOM. The reporter then wrote his own story which was later picked up by the Swiss wire services and appeared in newspapers throughout that country.

Media interest in the story in the United States was initiated at a press conference held in Washington, D.C., where the release of the FREEDOM Magazine issue was announced.

Associated Press (AP) covered the press conference and the story ran nationally. The AP wire quoted police officials in several states attesting to the highly addictive nature and destructive impact of Ritalin in their cities, and credited the Church of Scientology for making the widespread abuse of this amphetamine known.

Newspapers in many states, including Ohio, Iowa, Connecticut, Georgia, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee and California, have carried the AP story, topped by such headlines as "Psychiatric drug, Ritalin, sold on streets," "Group warns of Ritalin misuse in controlling child's behavior," and "Ritalin new drug problem."

One Iowa newspaper, the Cedar Rapids Gazette, learned from FREEDOM about the terrible street drug problem Ritalin had become and ran a feature story on it in a recent Sunday edition.

Radio station KOA in Denver, after receiving a copy of the FREEDOM edition in the mail, did a two-hour live

UNITED STATES

California Governor Signs Bill into Law Barring Frivolous Punitive Damages Suits

Persistent efforts by the Religious Freedom Crusade, the Department of Special Affairs staff in Sacramento, and Church allies recently culminated in the signing into law of a bill which protects churches and religious organizations in California from "frivolous" and "vindictive" punitive damages suits.

California Senate Bill 1 (SB 1) was signed into law by Governor George Deukmejian on September 27 after being resoundingly approved by the legislature.

SB 1 passed by an overwhelming majority in the Senate and a virtually unanimous 63 to 1 vote in the Assembly.

The new law prohibits claims for punitive or exemplary damages (those intended to "punish" or "make an example") against religions unless a judge finds, through a pre-trial motion, that the plaintiff has demonstrated convincing evidence that he will prevail at trial.

"The signing of this bill into law sends a strong message to lawyers that the California legislature does not like the assault against religion we've been seeing here in the state," Vic Krohn, Director of Special Affairs in Sacramento, told Scientology Today after the victory.

Vic Krohn

This bill was originally conceived by members of the Religious Freedom Crusade in 1986 during the "Battle of Los Angeles." . . . Heber Jentzsch stated, "All those who participated in the Battle of L.A. and the demonstration in Sacramento in 1986 are acknowledged for their role in this victory."

Ministers and supporters from around the country and more than 1,000 Scientologists rallied on the steps of the capitol building in Sacramento to demonstrate in favor of Senate Bill 1 in 1986, the year after the bill was first introduced. As part of the Sacramento demonstration, an armada of ships sailed up the Sacramento River, bringing the message of religious freedom to the capitol.

Many religious groups joined the Scientologists in support of Senate Bill 1, including the California Catholic Conference, the California Council of Churches, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, and the national Congress for Religious Liberty.

This bill was originally conceived by members of the Religious Freedom Crusade in 1986 during the "Battle of Los Angeles" when thousands of Scientologists joined together to protest the exact type of suit that is now prohibited by the new California law.

Heber Jentzsch stated, "All those who participated in the Battle of L.A. and the demonstration in Sacramento in 1986 are acknowledged for their role in this victory."

"These individuals were active right on the front lines and played a vital part in achieving this tremendous win," he emphasized.

Major Blow to Psychiatric Assaults

Attorney Barry Fisher, chairman of the American Bar Association's Religious Freedom Subcommittee and a key organizer of the Congress for Religious Liberty, hailed the signing of the measure as a major step forward in the struggle for religious freedom.

"For a small group of lawyers, attacking religion has become an incredible growth industry, and this law spells disaster for them," he said, adding that the law is also a major blow to psychiatric assaults on religious counseling.

"This law is a major blow to unscrupulous lawyers who see the possibility of extraordinarily large awards if they take on religious organizations," said Vic Krohn.

"These money-hungry lawyers count on winning outrageous judgments against churches by holding religious beliefs up to ridicule and scorn. The bigotry of these lawyers clouds the issue when there is no evidence of any wrongdoing on the part of the religion concerned," he said.

"By imposing the requirement that a judge review the evidence first, these frivolous punitive damages suits will be stopped before they ever get to a jury. This will help keep such distractions and noise out of our road," he stated.

'What Is Scientology' Campaign Takes off In Italy

Over the past three months, the Public Relations Bureau of the Office of Special Affairs in Italy has been a beehive of activity — pouring out the good news about the Church of Scientology and its products.

Since the beginning of July, the volume of theta media — press, radio and TV — has more than tripled, thereby spreading the truth about the Scientology religion and its results to the Italian public, and backing up the continued acceptance and expansion of the Church in that country.

The campaign was kicked off by a celebrity tour, during which five concerts dedicated to human rights and religious freedom were held. Scientology celebrities Gayle Moran and Peter Schless performed, joined by Chick Corea at the final concert in Milano, which was covered by every national paper and many radio and TV stations throughout Italy.

The open-air concerts, performed in the public squares of key cities throughout Italy, drew tremendous crowds — 5,000 people attended the Milano concert alone. During the events, Gayle, Peter and, in Milano, Chick, spoke to the public and the media about Scientology and how it has helped them in their lives and their careers.

The last of these concerts marked the beginning of a month-long crusade, during which several Scientologists, including Danilo Boldi, Giuseppe Capelli and Lorenzo Zoia, walked more than 500 miles from Brescia to Vatican City. Upon their arrival in Rome, they were joined by a chariot drawn by four white horses. While red, white and green balloons were launched into the skies, the crusaders marched around St. Peter's Square and delivered to the Pope a declaration for human rights and religious freedom which had been signed by members of the public along the crusade route.

A 20-minute videotape of an interview with Chick Corea was produced while he was in Italy. In the interview, Chick explained what Scientology is, and he described the Church's campaign to eradicate drug abuse and safeguard human rights. Since mid-July, the video has aired an average of 10 times per week on regional and local TV stations throughout the country.

A radio cassette of this same interview was also produced, as well as a 40-minute interview with a staff member from New Era Publications in which Scientology and Dianetics spiritual healing technology are discussed. Together, these radio tapes have run five to eight times a week on radio stations around Italy.

To further increase the outflow and make the Church well known, 25,000 copies of booklets on Scientology and on L. Ron Hubbard, and over 50,000 copies of the Church's newspaper, FREEDOM, were distributed by crusaders during their recent events.

According to Luciano De Marchi, the public relations spokesman for Italy, "This has been a very exciting and successful campaign for the Church, and it is creating a very positive effect on how the media, government officials and the Italian public view Scientology."

show on "Ritalin in the Streets." The station reaches a large number of states and has a listening audience of 1.8 million.

John Bacon, a reporter for the national newspaper, USA Today, was given the "Ritalin in the Streets" FREEDOM story and some of the background documentation on which the story was based. Shortly thereafter, he wrote a hard-hitting article entitled "Ritalin drug abuse on the rise," which attacked Ritalin as a "formidable street drug problem" moving across the country.

One of the sources quoted in the USA Today article, a police sergeant in Cedar Rapids, who had been interviewed by FREEDOM for its original exposé, painted a gruesome picture of the city's "Ritalin junkies" — drug addicts who prefer to inject Ritalin into their veins, rather than heroin or cocaine.

This sergeant had seen firsthand the tragedies caused by Ritalin, including young children introduced into the deadly game of drug pushing.

Through this police officer, FREEDOM was able to interview a 13-year-old boy arrested for pushing Ritalin on a school bus. This interview, published in the October issue of FREEDOM, exposes the horrifying reality of children becoming criminals after being placed on extremely addictive, mind-altering drugs by psychiatrists.

As a result of FREEDOM's ongoing series of articles on the dangers of Ritalin, many national media have joined in the campaign against drugging school-age children. A national women's magazine with a circulation of 1.5 million, which reaches mothers all over the country, ran a two-page feature on the dangers of Ritalin after the series of articles about the drug ran in FREEDOM.

"FREEDOM is a very well respected magazine in its own right," says FREEDOM editor Tom Whittle, a member of the Office of Special Affairs. He notes that he receives letters and phone calls from a wide variety of people every week validating the publication.

Much of the feedback comes from parents who say that as a result of reading articles about Ritalin in FREE-DOM, they are taking their children off this psychiatric drug entirely.

The mayor of a city in Delaware wanted more information about the dangers of Ritalin, as well as information about the Purification Rundown after reading articles in FREEDOM.

The magazine regularly gets letters of thanks from U.S. senators and U.S. congressmen who have received editions and found valuable information in the articles.

One recent letter from the Special Assistant to the Associate Commissioner for Enforcement of the Immigration and Naturalization Service validated FREEDOM for its strong anti-drug stand. "Drug abuse is a serious problem which threatens the future of our nation," he wrote. "I appreciate your support for strong, effective enforcement of our immigration and drug laws."

Such acceptances are increasing, according to Tom Whittle. "We are definitely getting our message across to the decision makers in media, government, education, business and other fields," he says.

L.A. County Gives Prestigious Award

Church of Scientology Wins Special Validation for Community Service

On August 20, at the posh Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles, the Church of Scientology was presented with a prestigious Special Appreciation Award from Los Angeles County for "consistent and outstanding contribution to the Department of Children's Services programs."

Shirley Young, public relations officer for the Department of Special Affairs in Los Angeles, accepted the award on behalf of the Church.

The beautiful plaque was presented by the county's Department of Children's Services at a special banquet attended by approximately 400 people, representing leading civic organizations in Los Angeles. The department provides care and shelter for abused and homeless children throughout Los Angeles.

Carole Simpson, representing the department, told the attendees that "The Church of Scientology's Community Outreach Program has greatly enhanced the Volunteer Services Program of the Department of Children's Services."

Church Brings

Joy and Smiles to Children

"The Church of Scientology has shared its love, time and multitude of resources to bring joy, smiles, and light to children who are neglected, abused and abandoned," Ms. Simpson stated.

Shirley Young told Scientology Today, "In The Way To Happiness, LRH says that 'Today's children will become tomorrow's civilization.' By working together with civic organizations throughout Los Angeles, we can help to ensure that needy children are given the chance for a better future."

The Community Outreach Program, which has been in operation for the last four years in coordination with the Department of Special Affairs, has been made possible through numerous field Scientologists who donate their time and talents to the program.

The Children Love It

"The children that we visit love it when we come to entertain them," Tom Smith, director of the Community Outreach Program, told Scientology Today.

Tom has personally received hundreds of letters of thanks since beginning the program in 1984. "They really appreciate the fact that someone is there who genuinely cares about them and how they are doing."

Since its inception, the Community Outreach Program has coordinated food and clothing drives for needy families, helped raise scholarship money for underprivileged children, sponsored blood drives in coordination with the Los Angeles Red Cross, and provided entertainment at more than 300 homes for children and the elderly.

Michelle has just completed the first of six murals she is painting for Children's Service centers around the city.

Noelle, working with Sea Org cadets from the Apollo Training Academy, has presented an original musical production entitled "The Planet of Ree" to children cared for by the Department of Children's Services.

Steve Henderson has been master of ceremonies at numerous different Children's Services events, as well as being the organizer and promoter of the Church of Scientology Jazz Ensemble, a group of Scientology musicians who have played at several events for Community Outreach.

"The Church has always been very much a part of the community," said Shirley. "By working hand in hand with other groups and organizations in the city, we intend to help make Los Angeles a better place for all of us to live."

Creating Positive Effects

Scientologists are leaders in creating positive effects in the community, and the event showed that other community leaders recognize this. Dorothy Tanaka, director of Volunteer Services for the Department of Children's Services, for example, was one of the many who warmly praised the Scientologists present at the event, and said the Church of Scientology was doing a great job in helping the community.

Shirley Young said, "Having so many Scientologists working so consistently in the community really shows to others the concern that Scientologists have for the world we live in. It makes a definite difference in the way the Church is viewed by them."

psychiatric "treatments."

News of CCHR's investigation is already making headlines throughout Italy, and the story has been picked up by radio and television stations, with some radio stations running special advertisements calling for victims of deep sleep to come forward and contact CCHR.

"There is no telling how many innocent people have been killed, maimed and permanently disabled by these brutal and savage psychiatric procedures," Luigi notes.

An investigation has also been opened into hospitals in London, where psychiatrist William Sargant conducted numerous experiments using drugs and electric shock. Sargant, who died recently, was a major advocate of deep sleep and a primary influence on Harry Bailey.

At St. Thomas' Hospital, one place where Sargant carried out drug and shock experiments, CCHR has already uncovered evidence that at least four of Sargant's patients died while under his "care."

Sargant once boasted in the British Medical Journal that he had "used various forms of continuous sleep treatment . . . on several thousands of patients. . . ."

Tulane Medical Center

"There is little doubt that we will find exactly the same kind of atrocities in England that were taking place in Australia," says Justine Petersen, CCHR spokeswoman for the United Kingdom.

Validation for CCHR

The response in Australia to CCHR's strong anti-psych campaign has been overwhelmingly positive.

One newspaper, The Sydney Morning Herald, which has been covering the story of the atrocities continuously for months, has had to assign staff full-time just to answer the calls that have been flooding in as a result of the ongoing press accounts of the Royal Commission's investigation.

Since 1985, more than 1,000 articles have been written on Chelmsford, almost all of them crediting Scientologists or CCHR for leading the attack against the psychs. Victims have continued to come forward with more and more horror stories. To date, more than 100 victims have contacted CCHR with additional information about the psychiatric atrocities that took place not only at Chelmsford but at many other locations in Australia.

Television and radio stations which have continued to run the Chelmsford story report that their viewers and listeners have been calling in to validate Scientologists for their courageous work.

As a result of the massive press coverage, the Sydney org has been flooded with new people asking for more information about Scientology.

"CCHR's work has made it clear to everyone just how deadly psychiatry's dehumanizing practices really are," Jan Eastgate says. "Now that the international scope of the situation has begun to unfold, we are more determined than ever to continue until psychiatry is banned completely from every corner of the world."

1,000 Fully Trained PRs is the Goal

Trainees from around the world have been arriving regularly at the International Training Org (ITO) in Los Angeles to study the LRH technology for one of the most exciting and challenging professions available to a staff member — public relations.

Students are being trained as top-notch professionals on a series of courses that are part of the new PR training lineup. Based 100 percent on LRH materials that provide specific instructions on how a PR should be trained, the lineup includes a brand-new survey course and a fully revised PR course containing LRH materials on the subject of public relations that have never before been released.

Public Relations staff at the Office of Special Affairs International are among the many church executives involved in implementing the PR training program.

The target they are working toward, as laid out in international management strategy, is to back up the current expansion of Scientology by getting at least 1,000 PRs into training by March of next year.

Students on the PR training lineup learn the comm formula and get their TRs in perfectly. Then they study the PTS/SP Course, which contains vital technology for anyone working in the field of PR. They are also trained on the basic staff policies in Volume 0.

With these courses completed, the students are then trained on the standard LRH technology of public relations.

The trainees quickly learn that PR is hard, challenging work. As LRH states in HCO Policy Letter of 9 October 1970, THE PR PERSONALITY:

"The last essential ingredient of a PR is the ability to WORK.

"When appointing people to PR training, the person's work record is very very important . . .

"And anyone taking up PR who does so to escape hard work will fail as it IS hard work."

Edward Barko, who is in training to become the Department of Special Affairs (DSA) PR for Adelaide, Australia, was one of the first students to begin the new lineup. "It can be a very chaotic environment out there," he says. "When your job is to make that environment safe for the expansion of Scientology, you have to have real certainty on the tech of PR."

He gives some examples: "How do you handle black propaganda? How do you make Scientology well thought of among community leaders? These are the kinds of things you really have to know, and it is all covered in LRH's PR Series," he points out. "The PR lineup fully arms you with the tech on how to handle any situation in the environment."

Adrienne Craig, in training to hold the post of Port Captain AOLA, considers PR training one of the most successful hatting actions she has ever done as a staff member. "The wins on PR training are incredible!" she exclaims. "I've been in Scientology since 1973 and this training is the best I've ever had because I've gained so much more certainty and awareness."

"Unshakable"

Tom Kraap of Narconon, Holland, is another trainee who can attest to the effectiveness of the PR training lineup. With two years of hard work and experience as a staff member already behind him, Tom felt at first that he "didn't have any problems with the area of PR.

"But the tech I've studied on this PR training program has all been material that I've been missing for the last two years," he says. "I've become far more 'unshakable' as a PR as a result."

Edilia Cole, studying her hat as the DSA PR Sacramento, has also gained tremendous certainty as a result of her PR studies. "I have never learned so much so quickly!" she says.

"I feel much more stable than I ever have before, and there are still more courses to do. This is the opportunity of a lifetime."

Victor Maldonado, in training for the LRH Public Relations Office in Latin America, says, "This training is vitally needed for my continent to get Dianetics technology known and well accepted. With what I am learning here at ITO, I will be able to fully represent Ron to the people of Latin America as the great author, educator and humanitarian that he is!"

PR training is available to those who qualify, whether they are new staff members or veterans who have been on staff for many years.

Tanya Whitman, who is relatively new to the field of PR, is studying for the post of Social Reform Officer for the Department of Special Affairs at Celebrity Centre Portland. "Sometimes, I would create tremendous effects with 'tidbits' of tech I had gotten as a result of reading the PR Series," she says. "I had this personal policy to read a little PR tech each morning before going on post so that I could avoid the pitfalls I knew an untrained PR could encounter.

"When the opportunity arose to do full PR training, I decided to make it happen! I pushed through all the barriers — and there were plenty — and made my postulate stick," she continues. "I know that when I get back to my org, I won't have to worry about any of those pitfalls anymore."

"Furthering the Expansion of Scientology"

Marc Jefferson, in training to be the DSA PR for Orange County Org, views PR training as extremely important for the future of the Church. He calls it "very, very valuable tech that I know will enable me to do my part in furthering the expansion of Scientology.

"When I finish my training," he continues, "I'll be able to confront and handle any individual or group in the environment. When you realize how PR fits in with the overall management strategy for Scientology, it is easy to see that training PRs is vital to building strong and expanding orgs."

All of the students on the PR training lineup agree that meeting the target of 1,000 professional PRs in training is key to creating an unprecedented expansion for the Church.

"Creating such a tremendous number of fully trained PRs who are capable of controlling the environment and making a safe space for the expansion of Scientology is something that has never been done before," says Jason Zimmatore, in training for the LRH Personal Public Relations Office in the United Kingdom. "It will make an incredible difference on this planet."

Just wanted to comment on your latest issue of Scientology Today. I think it's a dynamite issue and is really a win to read all the sweeping changes.

It's hard to see how much progress we're making when you're just working in a small sphere "in the trenches," as it were.

Well done and keep up the good work.

The Psychiatrist At Work

Auditors are often fought by psychiatry. The auditor is often called upon to handle psychiatric abuses. Auditors should know some facts about psychiatry.

PAIN ASSOCIATION

As a technical action, it is of interest to any auditor to know that Pain and Ideas is a basic "therapy" used down the years by psychiatrists and such lot.

The practice is very general and very old.

The person is made to associate his "wrong ideas" with pain so that he "will not have these ideas", or will be "prevented from doing those things".

A crude current example is to electric shock a person every time he smokes a cigarette. After several "treatments" he is supposed to associate the pain with the idea and so "give up smoking".

Homosexual tendencies are also so "treated".

In earlier times alcoholism was "cured" by putting poison in drinks so drinking would make the person violently ill so he would "stop it".

Examples of this are all over the time track.

The mechanism is "If you get this idea you will feel this pain" ZAP!

Basically this is the action of an implanter.

Current use of it will be encountered where psychiatry has been busy implanting.

This is a pinnacle, an all, of psychiatric "treatment".

Another version of it is drugs. Make the person too torpid (sluggish) to have any ideas. The motto of this is "too dead to act". Institutions are emptied by hooking psychotics and "community psychiatry" exists "to make them take their pills", in short, to keep them hooked. This started the current drug craze that spread into "illegal" drugs.

The auditor will encounter this with growing frequency as the business of it is so big that one group spends 12 billion in advertising alone per year! This is the Rockefeller drug cartel. They also spend vast sums in lobbying parliaments.

OBSESSION

Most "got to's" or obsessions come from Pain Association or drug association.

People in pain or drugged can become obsessed with doing the idea.

What the psychiatrist does not care to publicize is that his "cures" are implantings with compulsive ideas.

The smoker so treated now MUST smoke but CAN'T smoke. These two things are opposed. That is known as frustration — a form of insanity.

Must reach can't reach, must withdraw can't withdraw is total basic insanity.

Thus psychiatry is making insane people.

This is why the insanity statistic is soaring and why the crime statistic is on a wild climb.

The psychiatrist if he handled his field well and did really effective work would have a declining insanity and crime statistic.

That the psychiatrist and his "technology" has been in charge during the whole period of these alarming statistics is ignored by governments.

The psychiatrist argues that he needs more money and more practitioners. But he gets money by the billion. The state has to totally support them because the public will have nothing to do with them.

Psychiatric care in a private hospital costs $30,000. $2,000 a month for board only is the price at Walnut Lodge in Washington DC, an average place. £60 a week is charged in England for a shabby room. "Care" is extra if it exists.

Psychoanalysis costs £9,000 for a full and ineffective course, takes 5 years, 30% suicide in the first 3 months.

Psychiatric treatment runs 5 times the total cost of every course, grade and action available in Scientology orgs.

SKILL LEVEL

Any HAS* knows more and can do more about the mind than any psychiatrist.

There is no real level of comparison since psychiatry as used is a destructive technology.

Under a "drug treatment" engram you often find savage electric shocks of execution strength buried.

It is doubtful if one could watch an electric shock "treatment" without vomiting.

In "neurosurgery" the Ice Pick is used to rip and tear up people's brains.

Holes are drilled in skulls and the brain sliced up.

*HAS — abbreviation for Hubbard Apprentice Scientologist.

BY L. RON HUBBARD

No evidence exists that this ever helped anyone but it makes incurable invalids.

Illegal seizure of anyone and his torture is legal in most "civilized countries".

MASTERS

The psychiatrist has masters. His principal organization, World Federation of Mental Health, and its members, the National Associations of Mental Health, the "American" Psychiatric Association and the "American" Psychological Association are directly connected to Russia.

Even the British Broadcasting Company has stated that psychiatry and the KGB (Russian Secret Police) operate in direct collusion.

A member of the WFMH sits on every major "Advisory Council" of the US government, to name one government.

Ministers of Health or Health Authorities are members of the National Association or the WFMH.

The psychiatrist has masters.

DOCUMENTATION

All these statements are the subject of total documentation in the hands of Scientology.

SUMMARY

The auditor in auditing uncovers considerable data in former psychiatric cases.

Further an auditor can put to rights a case so abused unless a fatal injury has been done.

As psychiatry circulates rumours about auditors and attempts to discourage the use of Dianetics and Scientology, it is only fair for the auditor to know exactly the status of psychiatry and psychology as used today.

It goes without saying that the savagery and fraud of psychiatry must cease and that auditors must encourage in state and public and through all his connections displacing psychiatric abuses with sane auditing.
